A Welcome to Our Visitors

We are honored and encouraged by your presence, and we ask God's blessings upon you as we worship together. Please permit us to have a record of your visit. There are visitors cards on the table in the foyer and on the back of the pews. We ask that you complete one and drop it in the collection basket. Thank you.

Please allow us to share something about ourselves. We are a family of believers who love God because He first loved us. In response to His love, we have entrusted our lives to Him, offering God our hearts, our faith and our praise. He has transformed and empowered us to serve in His Kingdom. We would like to share His love with you. (Acts 10:33)

Today our worship to God will be as He has taught us in His Word. We will celebrate the Lord's Supper to remember the death of Jesus Christ, as the New Testament church did on the first day of the week (Acts 20:7). We will take up a collection for doing the Lord's work. (1 Corinthians 16:2). Visitors are welcome to give but do not feel that it is necessary, as you are our guest. We will sing, pray, and spend time in God's Word, just as the early church did.
Please join us as we worship together this morning.

May God bless you each day as you come to know Him better.

Ready to Listen

September feels like a season of beginnings. New classes have started. New routines are settling into place. New opportunities are appearing. There is something hopeful about standing at the beginning and wondering what God might do next.

For me, this season is marked by Walker moving to College Station. What has always been familiar is still familiar, but also changed. His leaving home is a good result of growth and maturity, but I still miss my son. It changes things.

As a boy, Samuel grew up serving in the tabernacle. First Samuel 3 tells us about a night when the familiar was inhabited in a new way by the presence of God. Samuel learned to meet that moment with a simple response: "Speak, LORD, for your servant hears" (1 Samuel 3:9). Samuel did not know everything that was ahead of him. He simply made himself available to listen.

That is a good posture for us, too. We can enter a new season with our plans already settled and our expectations firmly in place, or we can remain open to what God wants to teach us. Through His Word, through His people, and through the ordinary experiences of our lives, God continues shaping us to look more like Jesus.

As this new season begins, try starting each day with a simple prayer: "Lord, what do You want to teach me today?" Then pay attention. Listen to His Word. Listen carefully to others. Notice the opportunities He places before you. The familiar may be changing, but God is still present.

We do not need to know everything the new season will bring. We simply need to be ready to listen.

Dear Brethren,
Thank you for your prayers of the Lord's work with us in India! We are grateful for your faithfulness; your support is all the more precious as the persecution in India grows.

May the Lord continue to bless you and keep you.

In Him,
Rachel on behalf of my dad, Dave Nance,
